

WIDENING PARTICIPATION AWARDS

University of the Year

This award will recognise a university initiative with a focus on graduate employment, progression into professional jobs and post-graduate study.

Q: Who's eligible?

A: Must be an initiative run by a UK university, focused on supporting students from UK schools and have run in the 2025-26 academic year.

Q: Who's allowed to make a nomination?

A: Anyone! Unlike the undergraduate awards, universities can also nominate themselves for this award.

Widening Participation Organisation of the Year

This award will recognise an organisation working to improve widening participation outcomes in the UK, for example third sector organisations or student-led groups.

Q: Who's eligible?

A: Must be an organisation whose work focuses on supporting disadvantaged students and has run in the 2025-26 academic year. Universities are not eligible in this category.

Q: Who's allowed to make a nomination?

A: Must be an organisation whose work focuses on supporting disadvantaged students and has run in the 2025-26 academic year. Universities are not eligible in this category; however, student-led groups operating at a University are.
